

A detailed line drawing of a mechanical assembly, likely a valve or actuator. The central component is a cylindrical body with various ports and a handle. A coiled spring is attached to the top of this assembly. A thin rod or cable passes through the center of the assembly. The entire unit is mounted on a complex base with various structural elements, bolts, and a cable connector on the right side. The drawing is a technical illustration in black lines on a white background.

Inhibitor switch

AC506483AC