

A technical line drawing of a vehicle chassis component, likely a rear axle assembly. The drawing shows a central horizontal beam with various mounting points, including a large circular hub on the left and a smaller one on the right. The beam is connected to other parts of the chassis via several bolts and brackets. The background shows a simplified representation of the vehicle's frame and suspension components.

MB991454

MB991527

ACB05938AB