

A technical line drawing of a front impact sensor assembly. The sensor is a rectangular unit with a lens on the front and a connector on the back. It is mounted to a metal bracket. An arrow points from the text 'Headlamp support panel upper' to a specific part of the assembly. The background shows the internal structure of a vehicle's front end, including the headlamp housing and various mounting points.

Headlamp support panel upper

Front impact sensor

ACB05523AC